Recap: Chapter 7

1

Margins Frame the Page

Consistent margins make any document look more professional.

2

Orientation Fits the Content

Landscape suits wide tables and charts. Portrait works well for everything else.

3

Columns Are for Layouts, Not Letters

Save columns for newsletters and reference sheets.

4

Page Breaks Beat Extra Enters

Ctrl+Enter keeps your layout stable even after future edits.

Today's Objectives

1

Add Headers

Repeat a title or heading automatically at the top of every page.

2

Add Footers

Repeat information like page numbers or a file name at the bottom of every page.

3

Insert Page Numbers

Number every page automatically, in a style that updates itself.

4

Control First-Page & Odd/Even Behavior

Keep a cover page clean, or mirror headers for printed booklets.

Headers

1

What a Header Is

Repeating text or graphics at the top of every page — like a document title or logo.

2

Insert Tab → Header

Insert tab → Header — choose a built-in style or start blank.

3

Editing a Header

Double-click near the top of any page to jump straight into header-editing mode.

4

Closing the Header

Double-click back in the body text. Or click Close Header and Footer. Both return you to normal editing.

Footers

1

What a Footer Is

Repeating text at the bottom of every page — often used for page numbers or a file name.

2

Insert Tab → Footer

Insert tab → Footer — choose a built-in style or start blank, just like headers.

3

Common Footer Content

Page numbers, date, author name, or a confidentiality note are all typical footer content.

4

Headers and Footers Match the Theme

Built-in styles automatically match the document's fonts and colors.

Page Numbers

1

Insert Tab → Page Number

Choose Top of Page, Bottom of Page, or Page Margins for where the number appears.

2

Number Format

Page Number → Format Page Numbers. This lets you switch number styles, like 1,2,3 or i,ii,iii. You can also restart the count.

3

The “Page X of Y” built-in style shows both the current page and total pages.

4

Numbers Update Automatically

Add or remove pages and every page number adjusts itself.

Different First Page & Odd-Even Pages

1

Different First Page

Header & Footer Tools → Options → Different First Page hides the header/footer on page one.

2

Why Use It

Cover pages and title pages usually shouldn't repeat the header or page number.

3

Different Odd & Even Pages

Lets left and right pages have mirrored headers/footers — common in printed booklets.

4

Where the Option Lives

Double-click a header or footer, then check the Design tab that appears.

PRACTICE

Add a Report Header

1

Insert a Header

Insert tab → Header → Blank — click into the header area.

2

Type the Header Text

Type “Hunar Institute — Monthly Progress Report” in the header.

3

Center It

Select the header text and press Ctrl+E to center it.

4

Close the Header

Double-click in the body text, or click Close Header and Footer, to return to normal editing.

PRACTICE

Number the Pages

1

Insert tab → Page Number → Bottom of Page → Plain Number 2 (centered).

2

Switch the Format

Page Number → Format Page Numbers → change the style to “Page X of Y.”

3

Add a Second Page

Press Ctrl+Enter to add a page break — confirm the new page shows “Page 2 of 2.”

4

Delete the Extra Page

Undo the page break (Ctrl+Z) and confirm the numbering goes back to “Page 1 of 1.”

Wrap-Up

Key Takeaways

1

Headers & Footers Repeat Automatically

Set them once and every page updates.

2

Page Numbers Update Themselves

Add or remove pages and the count stays accurate.

3

Cover Pages Are the Exception

Different First Page keeps a title page clean.

4

Double-Click to Edit

The fastest way into a header or footer is double-clicking it directly.
